Applies to

1. Eligibility

[Write the clause. Guidance: Which roles and employees may work hybrid, how eligibility is decided and reviewed, and that the arrangement is not a contractual right unless stated.]

2. Schedule and office days

[Write the clause. Guidance: The model (fixed days, anchor days, team days, alternating weeks), how many office days are required, who sets them, and how changes are requested.]

3. Core hours and availability

[Write the clause. Guidance: The hours employees must be reachable regardless of location, response-time expectations, and calendar norms.]

4. Workspace, equipment and expenses

[Write the clause. Guidance: What the company provides, what the employee provides, the home workspace standard, and the expense or stipend arrangement, including state reimbursement laws.]

5. Security and data

[Write the clause. Guidance: Device, network and document rules at home and in public places, and what happens if a device is lost.]

6. Communication and meetings

[Write the clause. Guidance: Which channels for what, meeting norms when some people are remote, and documentation expectations.]

7. Performance and measurement

[Write the clause. Guidance: That performance is measured on outcomes, not presence, what is measured, and how hybrid employees are kept visible for development and promotion.]

8. Time, attendance and location

[Write the clause. Guidance: Time recording for non-exempt staff, where employees may work from (home address, other states, abroad), and tax and payroll consequences of location changes.]

9. Review and withdrawal

[Write the clause. Guidance: How often arrangements are reviewed, on what grounds the company may change or end them, and the notice given.]
